ANOTHER FINE SERVICE AT METHODIST REVIVAL

Despite Disagreeable Weather Good Crowd Hears Sermon on "Waitered Stock" at Third Street Church Friday Evening.

The cold March wind blew hard and a cold mist of rain fell but this did not keep people from the Methodist revival. For there is the atmosphere of spiritual warmth and an influence about the meetings that have a wondrous drawing power. After one attends a few services the desire to be in the meetings overweights any thought about disagreeable weather.

The biggest audience and the biggest choir of the week were present. Then a fine orchestra made up of the best of the Cardinal Band boys helped greatly with the music. The evangelistic party never cease praising the way they found everything in readiness for this campaign. Then the attendance of brother pastors of other denominations together with so many of their members exhibits a fine spirit of cooperation. May it continue and every church receive a blessing from the meetings.

The flute, violin and piano selection, "One Fleeting Hour," and a very effective duet "Nobody Loves You So" sung by the evangelist and his singer, were the high points in the musical program. The sermon on "Waitered Stock" was a further appeal to Christians to labor earnestly for souls, doing everything the Master would have them do. The attractiveness of the audiences to these messages of spiritual uplift is one of the most encouraging tokens of the meetings. Every one present seems to "stand attention," ready to act upon any suggestion of the speaker. If this fine spirit continues something is going to happen that will astonish Maysville.

Sunday will be a big day. There will be big crowds and it will be well for folks to come early in order to secure good seats. The church will endeavor to provide comfortably for all who wish to enjoy the meetings.

FIRST MORTGAGES.
We offer First Mortgages investments of the highest character. In every loan offered, the soundness of value, title to property and standing of the borrower have been thoroughly investigated and approved by the officers and attorneys of this bank before being accepted as our own investments.

These investments are offered to the public with our highest recommendation. They bear interest at the rate of six per cent. This rate, considering the high type and large margin of security in these loans, is unusually attractive.

Investment in these mortgage loans helps finance the community, and the security is right here at home where you can make personal investigation if you want to.

THREATENING LETTER IS WRITTEN FROM MT. OLIVET

County Seat of Robertson County Breaks Into One of the Nation's Most Sensational Murder Cases.

Mr. Olivet, county seat of the smallest county in the state, broke into the case of Miss Olivia Stone, nurse, being tried in New York City for the murder of Ellis Guy Kinkead, former corporation counsel of the city of Cincinnati, Friday.

Miss Stone had written threatening letters to Kinkead while she was employed at Mt. Olivet as a nurse.

Holding Miss Stone paper and pencil, District Attorney Warbasse asked her to write from dictation.

The letter he read, dated October 4, 1918, at Mount Olivet, Ky., advised

Kinkead that Miss Stone intended to file a suit for breach of promise and that she told her lawyer "all about that woman—the real cause of your not wanting to marry me."

"After the suit is over," Mr. Warbasse read, and Miss Stone wrote, "I am going to telegraph my brother Guy to come to me at once and you know what will happen to you after he sees me and hears the story."

"You will be mortified to death when the suit is brought for breach of promise."

Holding her the letter, Mr. Warbasse asked her to compare the handwriting with what she had written.

She said it was her handwriting, but that she had no recollection of having written it, adding that there was "something back of these stories."

The lecturer, with several others, was introduced by Mr. Warbasse yesterday as a surprise after Miss Stone had testified she considered herself already married to Kinkead and had denied writing him letters demanding money on threat of suing him for breach of promise.

WORLD AT HOME SHOWS COMING TO MAYSVILLE.

The advance agent of the World at Home Shows was in Maysville this week and made arrangements for his company to show in this city during the first week in May. This is said to be one of the largest shows of the kind to date on the road traveling in their own 26 cars. This same company furnished the midway at the Kentucky State Fair last year.

PROF. W. J. CAPLIN RE-ELECTED HEAD OF CITY SCHOOLS

City Board of Education at Meeting Held Friday Evening Unanimously Re-elects School Head for Three-Year Term.

The regular monthly meeting of the City Board of Education held at the High School building Friday evening was a very important one as much important business was transacted.

Probably the most important business transacted was the fixing of salaries for the various positions under the board and the election of a superintendent.

The only salary increases made were in accordance with the salary schedule adopted several years ago, and are provided for because of the length of service. New teachers are started at $75.50 per month but are increased to the regular grade teachers' salary after the first year. There were three such teachers, who if elected for next year, will receive this increase in salary. The colored grade teachers will also receive a slight increase to bring them up to the $75 per month minimum as required by state law.

Prof. W. J. Caplinger, who has been head of the Maysville City Schools for the past nine years, was unanimously re-elected superintendent by the board for a term of three years. During Prof. Caplinger's tenure of office, the Maysville schools have made rapid strides forward and he is recognized as one of the leading school men in Kentucky. He is not only President of the Department of Superintendence of the Kentucky Educational Association but also heads the state organization of school heads in cities of the Third and Fourth class.

The school board granted all the city teachers a three-days' leave of absence to attend the Kentucky Educational Association in Louisville in the month of May and granted a half-holiday for Thursday, April 26th, opening day for the Maysville club of the Bluegrass Baseball League.

FORMER EMPEROR OF AUSTRIA DIES WHILE IN EXILE

Pneumonia Develops and Causes the Death of Former Ruler of Austria-Hungary Empire Saturday Morning.

Funchal, Madeira, April 1.—Former Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary died here today.

Former Emperor Charles was taken ill at his home in exile on the Island of Madeira slightly more than a week ago. He was first said to be suffering from a fever, but direct advices from Funchal on March 28 announced that his malady was bronchial pneumonia and later it was stated that he was suffering from pneumonia with cerebral complications. His condition became so serious Wednesday that Extreme Unction was administered.

There was some improvement in the former ruler's condition Wednesday night, but he failed to maintain his gain, and Friday he grew rapidly worse.

The illness of the ex ruler aroused great sympathy among the monarchists in both Vienna and Budapest. One of the former court physicians started from Vienna in the hope of reaching Funchal and attending the ex-monarch, a subscription of several million crowns being raised to defray the expense, while in Budapest it was reported that Count Julius Andrassy had sold a famous Rembrandt for $100,000 francs to assist the exile.

"BOB" BRECKINRIDGE'S DEFINITION OF LOVE.

Robert J. Breckinridge, talented son of the late lamented W. C. P. Breckinridge, wonderful editor and unsurpassed orator, has many of his illustrious father's qualities. His contributions to the editorial page of the Lexington Herald, edited by his brother Desha Breckinridge, another gifted writer, are among the most interesting features of that splendid newspaper.

The publication of these interesting "stories" in book form would make a valuable addition to Southern literature. Into the mouths of his characters he places common sense of a striking sort and beautiful phrases that ring in the mind as well as wit and eloquence of the side-splitting variety. In last Sunday's edition of the Herald he gives this definition of love through one of his characters:

"I'll tell you my idea; it's only an idea, mind you. Love is the golden link in the iron chain of life; it's the radiating light that glows clear and luminous from out the darkness of the world; it's a feeling, deep, burning, enduring, unquenchable and unsullied, that makes sacrifice a pleasure; it's a melody laden with the tender notes of the cradle song and the low sweet echo of the crooning lullaby; it's an emotion hallowed, eternal, infinite, profound and paramount that rests in the mother's breast as she waits in the weary watches of the nights for her wayward boy; it's an anthem of affection, devotion, love and charity that makes one long for the song of birds, the laughter of babes, the company of a friend."

EXCELSIOR AND THE GLAD HAND

Mr. Lloyd George, referring in a recent address on the height of fame and responsibility that he has attained said, "The higher you climb the colder it becomes and the lonelier you find it. There you are open to every blast of wind and exposed to attacks of every kind." The British premier may have found it so as the executive head of the Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas, Empire of India, etc., but we venture the assertion that President Harding does not find the atmosphere of the White House so cold and lonely. No head of any other nation in the world is closer to the people than the President of the United States. Every day he meets and shakes hands with hundreds of American citizens, who come to the White House to wish him well and congratulate him on his conduct of public affairs. He is in closest touch with the representatives of the people in the legislative branch of the Government, and not a day goes by that he does not meet and discuss with them matters of legislation for the public welfare. Of course Mr. Harding is made the object of criticism for some quarters, but he has the satisfaction of pointing to his record in refutation—record that is being overwhelmingly endorsed whenever the people go to the polls to cast their votes.

THE PRESS AGENTLESS PAST.

When Alexander led his host
And made himself a top-notch winner,
Nobody read the Daily Post
To find out what he liked for dinner.

When Caesar said, "The die is cast,"
And waded forth to fields of glory,
The papers never searched his past
For dope to make a Sunday story.

When Cleopatra vamped some king,
Until, poor goof, he lost his noodle,
The paper never said a thing
About fair Cleo's Chinese poodle.

When Shakespeare dallied with the stage
And wrote his classic melodramas,
Nobody scanned the feature page
To read about his pink pajamas.

A FORT WAYNE WAIL

"The ship subsidy steal that Warren G. Harding proposed at the dictation of the Black Horse Cavalry of legislative grafters, will become one of the issues of the coming campaign," says the Journal Gazette of Fort Wayne, Indiana. Well, the ship subsidy bill has the endorsement of every Democrat on the Shipping Board and several in the Senate. The Democratic members of the Shipping Board three in number, have petitioned Democratic Congressmen to stand by the bill and to forget politics and remember ships. A large number of Democratic newspapers hope for the passage of the bill. So it would seem the "Black Horse Cavalry" discovered by the Journal Gazette has received a considerable enlistment from that paper's own party. With these few remarks the Journal Gazette may be left to the tender mercy of the Fort Wayne News, whose editor limbers up every morning by knocking the J. G. editor through the ropes.

READ AND JUDGE

Secretary of Labor Davis is working out a plan whereby all the facts regarding impending strikes will be presented to the public from an entirely disinterested point of view. Heretofore both sides to labor controversies have issued highly colored statements, each of which, taken by itself, carried conviction. It was impossible for the ordinary reader to form an unprejudiced opinion on the merits of the case. But it is the public that must bear the brunt of all the inconvenience and suffering incident to strikes, and the public is entitled to know where the blame lies. Mr. Davis will supply a long needed want when he issues his unbiased statements, and the popular judgment that they will bring forth will go far toward bringing about settlements in industrial disputes.

There seems to be more worry over those who will not attend the Genoa conference than over anything that those who do attend may do. —Dubuque Times-Journal.

United States Valuation Would Correct Tariff Evils

Judge De Vries.

"America's markets being the best, its prices the highest and its money at par, this country has become the goal of all regenerating trade," Judge Marion De Vries, of the United States Court of Customs Appeals, says in a statement just issued in favor of the new Fordney Tariff Bill.

"National self preservation, in that status, primarily demands, plenary defense of our markets against being made the dumping grounds of the world's products of cheap labor and production, augmented by extreme currency depreciation.

"One needs to travel but little to be taught the distress and dire needs of our manufacturers, producers and laborers by the vacant shops, the smokeless stacks, and hopeless faces of our workmen, where before were the hum of activity and the smile of contentment.

"Why? We turn to the morning paper. Every day is printed there the reason why. We read in one column, for example, that a cut of 20 per cent has been made in agricultural implements, in another that four and one-half million of our laborers are out of employment, while in another column you read an official report to the Department of Commerce that the great Krupp plants of Germany, the pre-war output of and workmen in which contributed more to the world calamity and human suffering than any like institution in history, now employs 99,000 men as against 81,000 men prior to the war; that they are contented and reasonably paid; that the daily output of agricultural and varied products of that institution is greater than in history.

"Upon every hand we find in our land that to-day our goods are being driven from our markets, our factories closed, our farms impoverished and our laborers thrown into idleness by the cheap productions of foreign countries which are hourly being dumped into this country. Three years ago the war closed. Almost every great commercial nation of the world save the United States has put up the tariff barriers against this deluge of cheap foreign goods. October 1st free trade England raised her duties 33 1/3% on six thousand articles. Previously she provided special duty against German goods of 50 per cent, and a depreciated currency provision of 75 per cent.

"The question now whether the import duties levied by the United States shall be calculated upon foreign or American valuation basis is perhaps the most important import tariff issue seriously considered by the Congress since 1883.

"The existing foreign valuation system is without doubt the weakest

Judge Marion De Vries, of the United States Court of Customs Appeals

ever enacted. Thereunder, ordinarily, to introduce foreign merchandise into the commerce of the United States, in competition with American products, no single oath by the foreigner is required as to their value, or is otherwise made necessary.

"It is absolutely impossible under the existing law to gain accurate information as to foreign home market values. Under our existing system, every appraiser throughout the United States is presumed every morning that he goes to his office to have knowledge of the market values of every imported article in every country of the United States exporting hereeto.

"No appraising officer in the United States is supplied by any efficient means of acquiring or of being supplied with this information. He has before him invoices only which indicate, if anything, export value alone in the country of exportation. This throws but little if any light upon what he is required to know, to wit, home market value in the country of exportation.

SCIENTISTS ON EVOLUTION.

Under "People's Forum" heading, the following appeared in Lexington Herald of March 16, 1922:

Editor, Lexington Herald:
It is refreshing to th lovers of truth who believe the Bible to be the word of God to read the declarations of two of the greatest scientists of the English-speaking world today before two o f the greatest bodies of scientists in Europe and America, contained in the following quotations from their recent addresses.

The first is from an address before the American Association for the Advancement of Science in its annual meeting at Toronto, Canada, December 28, 1921, by Dr. William Bateson, of England, perhaps the most competent authority on evolution in the whole world. Professor Bateson was the star reporter at this meeting, and in his address before that notable assembly of some two thousand of the leading scientists of America he said some very plain things. We give only brief quotations. The topic of the address was "Evolutionary Faith and Modern Doubts." He spoke in part as follows:

"It is impossible for scientists longer to agree with Darwin's theory of the origin of species. No explanation whatever, after 40 years, no evidence has been discovered to verify his genesis of species. . . . We can not see how the differentiation of species came about. Variations of many kinds, often considerable, we daily witness, but no origin of species. . . . Meanwhile, though our faith in evolution stands unshaken, we have no acceptable account of the origin of species."

The speaker went on to explain that he still believed in evolution in some fashion or other, basing this faith in a general way on the teachings of the popular geology; but he did not hesitate to say that the whole biological aspects of the problem are a source of keen disappointment. If the current teachings of geology are to be trusted regarding the supposed order in which the plants and animals have occurred on the earth, we must still believe as an act of faith that the later ones developed in some fashion out of the earlier ones; but as for the organic processes by which this development came about our studies of heredity and genetics do not afford us the faintest clue. This was the essence of his argument.

After explaining the relation between the geology and the biology of this question, he asked:

"Where 'then' is the difficult? . . . Why may we not believe the old comfortable theory in the old way. Well, so we may, if by belief we mean faith, the foundation of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." In dim outline evolution is evident enough. From the facts (as given to us by geology) it is a conclusion which inevitably follows. But that particular and essential bit of the theory of evolution which is concerned with the origin and nature of species, remains utterly mysterious. We no longer feel as we used to do, that the

New York Letter by Lucy Jeanne Price

New York. — Patrolman Charles Flood, perhaps Manhattan's most peace-loving resident. Back in 1876, Patrolman Flood now 76 years old, helped to make an arrest. Ever since that day until one afternoon this week, Flood has stayed loyally with his job, always done his duty, kept in physical trim so as to be ready for any husky thug who ever came along—but never mado another arrest. Last week, while he was trying to help a woman persuade an obstinate horse to move out of the middle of the street, a man rushed upon them with a torrent of abuse. Flood turned to tell him he was under arrest, hesitated and moved quickly away. This week the man went after him again one day and Flood decided his great hour had come. He took him to the station. "I'm glad you didn't send him to jail," he said afterward. "I'm a peace loving citizen. I don't like to get mixed up in any of this — this law breaking. I've gone peacefully to my work every day for 46 years without seeing the law broken once."

I have seen dogs taken into restaurants, art galleries, even churches. But I never before saw nor heard of the suction of carrying one's cat about with one. Down in an Italian restaurant the other night, however, a man and woman entered, the man carrying something under his arm wrapped in a brilliant rose-colored scarf. He placed it on a chair and there rose from the covering, a handsome white Angora cat. All during that meal the cat sat there quietly, never stirring, gazing haughtily about the room with its golden eyes. They didn't feed it, they didn't display any reason why they should have brought it, but there it was.

"Candida," the second Shubert revival of the year, opened the other night at the Greenwich Village Theater, as the first bill in the repertory season of Ellen Van Volkenburgh and Maurice Browne. Not since Arnold Daly did it in 1903 has "Candida" been seen in New York. It seems rather mild after some of the plays we have seen lately when we consider that it was looked up as "very advanced, my dear," at the time of his first production in this country. But it's still an excellent play, and it is being well performed.

Mrs. Harry H. Duryea has the profession of what might be called condensed landscape gardening. Mrs. Duryea makes small city backyards into attractive gardens, even when diminutive. Even fountains and statuary are included in some of her yards.

—NY—

Three thousand canaries, warbling until their little throats quivered, arrived here the other day on the steamship Mount Clinton. The whole flock was consigned to one bird dealer here. But there was one other bird in the consignment, which was silent — the sweetest singer of them all. A bulb — nightingale — from Peshawar, Barbara. It was bought from an old man, a servant in the house of a rug-maker on the Afghan road, and he sold it because "it made too much noise." But not a sound has it uttered, say the birds' attendants, since it left the but we have instead the Rhodes Scholarship Fund under which American young men are given instruction in Oxford University. It is doubtful if four years of teaching under such influences gives the student any better education than he would have received in our own universities, but the effect of a course under those auspices is not calculated to increase the fervor of his American patriotism. The late Andrew Carnegie once uttered the following: "I say that as sure as the sun in the heaven once shone upon Britons and Americans united, so surely it is one morning to rise, shake open, and greet again the Ro-United States, the British-American Union."

"Lord Northcliffe does not openly preach the reunion of the two nations, but he urged the spread of the British-American gospel to such an extent that if his ideas were followed out they would inevitably lead to the extinction of American independence. In on 'American issue' of the London Times of July 4, 1919, this eminent British editor suggested the following method for application to our country: 'To mobilize the press, the church, the stage and the cinema; press into active service the whole educational system, and root the spirit of good will in the homes, the universities, public and high schools, and primary schools. It should also provide for subsidizing the best men to write books and articles on special subjects, to be published in cheap editions or distributed free. New books should be added particularly in the private schools. Histories and textbooks should be revised — the end in view being that the public (in the United States) may subconsciously absorb the fundamentals of a complete mutual understanding.'

"Powerful influences of that sort have had the desired effect. There is a well-defined movement in the United States to introduce textbooks, especially histories, into our schools that will give the rising generation an entirely new idea of the circumstances surrounding the birth of the Republic. It is openly ascribed by the authors of some present-day American histories that the stirring incidents of the Revolution which we have been accustomed to read would better be omitted, and the whole story of that period has been so changed as to be hardly recognizable. Fortunately school officials are awaking to the dangers that threaten, and are taking measures to expunge such books from their curriculums."

The modern young girl, even when overcome with her insistence upon "independence" can be quite practical when it seems essential. Gwendolyn Pell and Jane Evans, Brooklyn high school girls, ran away the other day. No one knows why they ran, except that their parents say they had recently seemed obsessed with the "independence for women" movement, and probably thought it was "parasitic" for capable young women of sixteen years to remain "pampered, supported and restrained" in the words of some similar-minded young people of their sex. Anyway, anxiety over their disappearance was quieted when a telegram was received by J. H. Evans, Jane's father, saying, "We are in Washington, broke. Please wire instructions." Practical, matter-of-fact!

AMERICAN BOOKS FOR AMERICAN SCHOOLS.

Washington. — "Those who would contribute to the friendly feeling between the United States and Great Britain do their cause no good when they attempt to belittle the exploits of our Revolutionary heroes, seek to minimize that struggle and the War of 1812 in the public mind, or hold out hope that this country will be reunited to Great Britain," declares the Republican Publicity Association. The American people are grateful for what the British did in the World War, and there is every reason why the close associations of that period should develop into mutual understandings in the future for the good of the two nations and of the world. But the realization of that desire is not dependent in any way upon the rewriting of the early history of the United States or upon the silencing of the brilliant stories of American achievement with which that period is replete.

"Unfortunately there have been and are certain influences at work in England that seek to make public opinion in this country receptive to the suggestion that the two nations should eventually constitute a 'British-American Union.' The biographer of the late Cecil Rhodes states that the first draft of Rhodes' will directed the endowment of a secret society having for its object, among other things, 'the ultimate recovery of the United States of America as an integral part of the British Empire.' That original idea of Rhodes was never carried out, but we have instead the Rhodes Schol-

NATURE TELLS YOU
As Many a Maysville Reader Knows Too Well

When the kidneys are weak, the urine is nature's index. Infrequent or too frequent passage, Nature tells you about it. Other disorders suggest kidney illness. Doan's Kidney Pills are for disordered kidneys. Ask your neighbor, Maysville people testify to their worth.

Charles Kennan, retired farmer, 81 Wood street, Maysville, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills several different times within the last few years and never had them fail to do me good. My kidneys were in a mighty bad shape the first time I used them. This medicine reached my case at once and cured me up in good shape. I have always relied upon Doan's ever since. I use a few now and then to regulate my kidneys and they never fail me."

Please 60 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy — get Doan's Kidney Pills — the same that Mr. Kennan had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

ASHLAND PEOPLE OUT TO MAKE RECORD

Story of Starving Orphans and Refugees Families in Eastern and Central Europe

Pledges Are Received From Hundreds of People of All Faiths Who Contribute to Jewish Relief

One of the most remarkable records made by any city in Kentucky in welfare campaigns is that of Ashland in the present state-wide campaign of the American Jewish Relief Committee.

Three years ago when the last campaign was put on in Kentucky for Jewish Relief work in Europe, Ashland raised but a few hundred dollars.

In the present campaign Alex Jos-

"KENTUCKY SPIRIT FINE"—COL. LEVY

State Chairman of The American Jewish Relief Committee's Campaign Of Remarkable Demonstration

"People of All Faiths Are Working Together to Make The Drive a Huge Success"

"Keatnicky's campaign is going big," declared Col. Fred Levy, of Louisville, State Chairman of the American Jewish Relief Committee's drive for $150,000 which is on this week.

"Never have I seen the enthusiasm and the zeal for work at a higher pitch throughout the state than is being shown now everywhere in Kentucky. Indications are that Kentucky will be enrolled in the list of states that have reached and passed their quotas in the previous weeks of the nation-wide campaign. National headquarters in New York City and Zone headquarters in Chicago are watching Kentucky with great interest and we are going to show them what the state will do in response to such an appeal."

"One of the most remarkable features of the campaign is the splendid help given by the people of all faiths. I never saw a finer demonstration of fraternal spirit. In hundreds of communities throughout Kentucky the campaign is being conducted by non-Jews and in the cities and larger towns where there are Jewish organizations, the non-Jews are answering eagerly the call to aid.

"Wherever people learn the story of the 300,000 starving orphans and the 400,000 homeless, hungry, freezing families of Jewish refugees, there is an outpouring of pledges. Our speakers report that large audiences listen with breathless interest to the appeal of the starving and destitute in Central and Eastern Europe.

"In this great work people of all faiths are urged to contribute. There is a well-defined movement in the United States to introduce textbooks, especially histories, into our schools that will give the rising generation an entirely new idea of the circumstances surrounding the birth of the Republic. It is openly ascribed by the authors of some present-day American histories that the stirring incidents of the Revolution which we have been accustomed to read would better be omitted, and the whole story of that period has been so changed as to be hardly recognizable. Fortunately school officials are awaking to the dangers that threaten, and are taking measures to expunge such books from their curriculums."

"It is a great cause and Kentucky is making a splendid response."

PADUCAH SHOWS HOW TO RAISE MONEY

American Jewish Relief Committee Increases Subscriptions From $700 To $150,000 In Short Time

"Tell The Story—The Money Will Come", is The Advice Given To Other Cities

Keatnicks are ready and willing to give to the relief of the starving and destitute Jews of Eastern and Central Europe.

This has been amply shown by the citizens of Paducah, both Jews and non-Jews.

When the appeal was first made in that city about $700 was subscribed. It was confidently asserted that that was all the money that could be raised. Then more work was done and the committee in charge very reluctantly accepted a quota of $2,500, insisting that it was the very limit.

Following a visit to Paducah of Col. Fred Levy, State Chairman of the American Jewish Relief Committee, Rabbi Joseph Rauch and Edward Sachs, of Louisville, the quota was doubled. By that time the Paducah workers were so interested that they laid plans to eclipse every city in the state. Five thousand dollars was raised. The next report was $8,000. Then came a report of $12,000, in pledges. Now $15,000 is the goal.

In a letter to Colonel Levy, Herman Friedman of the committee said:

"We haven't really started in Paducah. We certainly don't intend to let any other community in this state catch up with us."

"Tell the story," is the advice of the Paducah Committee, "and you'll have no trouble raising the money. People of all faiths are thoroughly aroused to the needs of the suffering people in Europe and will give liberally."

season, of Ashland, again took active charge of the work. He enlisted the activities of all the Jewish people in Ashland and then started in to interest the non-Jews. As a result the whole city and surrounding country is putting on a stirring campaign.

Starting out with pledges of a few hundred dollars the story of the starving children and the homeless refugees of Central and Eastern Europe made such a deep impression that in a very short time $5,400 was pledged.

"We're just beginning," wired Mr. Josselson to Col. Fred Levy, State Chairman of the campaign. "Wherever we go people seem willing and anxious to give. It's the strong appeal of the terrible conditions over in Europe that is getting us the pledges. Keep your eye on Ashland when the last returns are in." Col. Levy at once wired Mr. Josselson his hearty congratulations upon the splendid showing made.

GOV. MORROW AIDS JEWISH RELIEF

Chief Executive of Kentucky Calls Upon People of All Faiths To Contribute Liberally

Prepares Stirring Appeal on Behalf of Starving Orphans and Homeless Families in Europe

Gov. Edwin P. Morrow in a strong heart appeal to the people of Kentucky calls upon those of every faith to give liberally of their money, time and influence to the great cause of Jewish relief in Central and Eastern Europe.

The letter was written to Col. Fred Levy, of Louisville, state chairman of the American Jewish Relief Committee's campaign in Kentucky this week to raise $150,000 for the aid of starving children and homeless men and women who through no fault of their own have been left to starve and freeze by the fortunes of war.

Gov. Morrow's letter in full follows:

Office of the Governor,
Frankfort, Ky.
March 26, 1922.

Col. Fred Levy,
State Chairman, Jewish Relief Committee,
Louisville, Ky.

My Dear Col. Levy:

I am most happy to assure you of my unqualified approval of the benevolent effort being made all over America for the purpose of relieving the suffering and unfortunate Jewish people in foreign lands.

Starvation, cruelty, suffering of every kind has descended upon thousands of Jewish men, women and children.

Requirements for payment of these dividends earned more than fifteen times in 1921.

POOL PLANNING TO DISTRIBUTE SALE PROCEEDS

Secretary, Fired By Great Task,
Unable to Name Date for Second Payment But It Will Be Soon.

With the closing of most of the receiving plants of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association the past week, will come the work of apportioning a second distribution of funds received from the sale of the association crop, Secretary H. L. Earley said Saturday.

Mr. Earley said it will require some time to work out the apportionment and still further time to write the 75,000 checks necessary to make the distribution, and that, he said, was the reason he was unable to say just when the distribution would be made.

Mr. Earley said that there were not 75,000 members of the association, but that attachments had been served in some cases and that there would be at least 20,000 assignments, most of these to secure loans advanced by banks.

Following the advance received on delivery, the banks receiving the check for the amount of the loan and interest and the grower the remainder of the amount distributed.

Contracts continued to come in the past week to the office of Assistant Chief of the Field Service Division William Collins at the Tattersall warehouse.

The number received the previous week was 235, representing $42,000 pounds of tobacco, and with no special effort made by chairmen in my county to obtain signatures, most of this signing doing so voluntarily.

Of the 235 contracts received, 83

came from Pendleton county, 32 from

Lewis, 16 from Campbell, 10 from

Clermont county, Ohio; nine from

Greene county; eight from Garrard, eight from Bullitt, seven from Boyle, six from Lincoln, six from Casey, five from Franklin and four from Henry.

The others came from all parts of the district.

MOTHER IGNORANT OF TRIAL.

Tompkinsville, Ky., April 1.—Mrs. Lizzie Stone, now close to the four score mark, is too feeble to go to the trial of her daughter, Olivia M. P. Stone, in New York on the charge of murdering Ellis Guy Kinkead, former Cincinnati corporation counsel.

She has been visiting relatives in Midway, Woodford county, for sometime and according to Miss Stone's statement in court, her mother does not know she is on trial.

Olivia Stone is a native of Monroe county, Ky., where she lived until ten years ago. Olivia Stone's father was Captain Allen Stone, a federal soldier. After the Civil War he was a guerrilla along the Kentucky and Tennessee border.
